CISD Invites Gause To Annex District

The Cameron School district has invited the Gause school district to be annexed in a resolution adopted by the local school board Thursday evening.

The board of trustees also elected a new tax assessor - collector and authorized a committee to find a new head coach and athletic director for high school.

Other items on the agenda included relocation of the school tax office, contracting with an architect on school plans, and a request for permission to hold a high school rodeo.

Board President Hilliard Thomas offered the resolution to the Gause school board inviting the annexation and welcoming the district into the Cameron district.

The resolution also stated that, should the annexation take place, six elementary grades would be kept at Gause "as long as feasible" and that the Cameron school district agreed to assume all legal indebtedness of the Gause district.

No election is required for the annexation, only a request to the County school board.

A native of Hoyte, Theo. F. Aschenbeck, was elected as new school tax assessor - collector in an executive session following the regular meeting.

Aschenbeck is a retired military man and a Yoe High graduate.

Eight applicants for the position were interviewed during the meeting.

During the executive session trustees also appointed Yoe Principal Jack Chubb, Supt. D. R. Dodson, and board members Forrest Sapp and Fredwill Horning to begin looking for a new head coach and athletic director, a post now held by Hal Stanislaw.

On relocation of the school tax office, Supt. D. R. Dodson read a letter from the local urban renewal agency offering rent-free space in its office for the school tax office, so that demolition can continue in the block where the office is located.

Discussion centered on the amount of space needed for storage and the amount of money offered by the agency for the building.

Sapp offered a motion that the agency's offer of $8625 be accepted and the agency's offer of temporary space be accepted. The motion died for lack of a second.

Mrs. Betsy Brown offered another motion similar to Sapp's but asking $10,000 for the building. The motion passed 5-1.

A Bryan architect is now drawing up a number of proposals for plans for school improvement and/or expansion, Dodson told trustees. A contract with the architect will be checked and offered for action at the January board meeting.

Three members of the Yoe High senior class appeared before the board and asked permission to stage a high school rodeo. They asked and received permission to solicit local businesses for prize money. No date has been set for the rodeo.

In other business, the board will accept bids for a new pickup for school use.

Mayor's Race Is Wide Open

Cameron Mayor E. A. Perrin has announced that he will not be a candidate for re-election in the April, 1972 city election.

In a statement to The Herald, Mayor Perrin cited health problems as the main reason he has decided not to run.

He said, "I have enjoyed my opportunity for service to the City, but feel that after four years in this office, and because of advancing age, and the health problems that come with age, it is inadvisable for me to seek another term. Consequently, I am notifying the citizenship that I will not be a candidate for this office another term."

Mayor Perrin began serving the city in the Mayor's chair in April, 1968, when he ousted incumbent Mayor Bassel Wilson. He was re-elected without opposition in the 1970 election, after first announcing that he would not be a candidate.

The Mayor recalled this in his statement when he said, "Since I made this statement two years ago and changed my mind and did stand for re-election, I will more forcefully state that I will under no conditions run for or accept this office for another term."

City To Begin Leaf Pickup

The city will begin leaf pickup with its leaf machine this week if the weather dries out, Works Supt. Jim Hale said.

The leaves may be put in piles near the curb for pickup by the machine. Leaves placed in bags are picked up by the city brush truck, he said.

Residents are asked to pile leaves only for the leaf machine -- sticks or limbs will stop up the machine and should be placed in separate piles for pickup.

The machine will start in the northeast section of the city and work west and south, Hale said. The whole city will be worked again a week after the first pickup. Leaf pickup will continue through the winter as necessary.

Police Chief Felipe Martinez said, "Freddie Lee Bynum, of 1106 North Austin, Cameron, driver of the car that struck Mrs. Brock, was traveling east on 4th Street.

Investigation officer Austin Niersman said no charges have been filed.

Rocket Breaks Up

An Honest John rocket apparently broke up in flight after being launched from Belton Reservoir Tuesday morning, a post spokesman said Thursday. There was no one injured and no damage, except to the rocket itself. The rocket apparently came apart during flight and landed in an impact area near the reservoir. The Honest John rocket has a nuclear capability but was armed with a training warhead only.

Alcoans View High Inventory Problems

Central Texas Alcoans at the company's Rockdale Works began to huddle last week to exchange suggestions and ideas and plan ways to reduce production costs and improve productivity so the 19-year-old plant (now employing about 1700) can maintain its position as a leading Central Texas industrial employer and citizen, announced Works Manager H. F. Chrisco.

"After 19 years of near-constant expansion and modernization to remain competitive in U. S. and world aluminum markets, Alcoa's Rockdale Works is today wrestling with an abnormally high inventory problem, production costs that have gone up about 10% since 1969, selling prices that are down some 20%, and costly environmental regulations," according to the Works Manager.

Chrisco, who is manager of the country's largest primary aluminum smelting plant, cited a recent statement made to free world producers by Alcoa President W. H. Krome George. Pointing to overcapacity, he characterized the now-ailing aluminum industry by saying that "None some of us are pretty sick, and a few of us may not survive."

"Alcoa, and its Rockdale Works are certainly going to survive because they are both basically healthy adults -- but just not feeling very well at the moment," Chrisco said.

To help combat worldwide overcapacity, Alcoa has trimmed production at six of the eight company smelters -- including the shutting down of one potline at Rockdale last July. The potline selected for shutdown at Rockdale was the plant's highest cost production unit, the Works Manager stated.

"The resultant layoff," he said, "certainly has had a negative effect in the surrounding community, even though all of the 100 Alcoans laid off have had the opportunity to return

Half Century Mark ...

The Cameron KC Lodge is citing its 50th anniversary this weekend.

That's a long time for a lodge to function and grow. And Cameron Council No. 2338 has grown.

The vintage years are not necessarily passive years. This group plays a role in many community and church-oriented activity as do counter parts in other lodges and orders.

It's good to stop periodically and examine where you or an organization has been. Then it is far clearer what tomorrow may bring. But especially at the half century mark.

Hoping R-L Wins

The Rosebud-Lott Cougars played in the AA semi-finals this weekend.

It is another long pull by a Central Texas team.

Only a few seasons ago it was Rogers, Rosebud, Buckholts and Cameron in bi-district, regional and beyond at one time.

R-L's Cougars are continuing this tradition. We join with tens of thousands of other Central Texans in hoping they won.

WHAT OTHERS SAY ...

Costly Packaging ...

How much do you really spend on food? Not your total grocery bill, but the food itself. Only about a third of your food dollar actually goes to the farmer. The middlemen get the rest. A US Agriculture Department study has found that nearly 9 cents of each dollar spent on US farm grown foods goes solely for its packaging. Much of this results from the expansion of so-called convenience foods and the requirements of our rapid system of nationwide distribution. But that's more than 13% of the middleman costs - $8.8 billion a year just for wrappings, 42% of it paper, 22% metal, the rest plastic, glass, wood and textiles. Very little of it is ever recycled. And packaging is increasing. It's getting so you can't buy a head of lettuce without carrying it home in a nonbiodegradable plastic bag. The price we pay, in cash and environmental degradation, for all this "convenience" is truly staggering.

Pat Nixon To Meet Women Behind China's Leaders

By James Pringle Reuter Correspondent

PEKING

When President Nixon's wife, Patricia, travels with her husband to Peking in February she will have a unique chance to mix with the small group of women behind China's leaders.

It is believed she will have plenty of time to meet with the women while the president is involved in talks during his weeklong visit with communist party chairman Mao-Tse-Tung, Premier Chou En-Lai and others.

One of the women she may meet is Madame Chou, 68, an early women's liberationist who, as a young student in Tientsin, fought against the Chinese tradition of binding the feet of female children. She is a veteran of Mao's epic long march of the Thirties.

An American journalist, and chronicler of the Chinese revolution, Edgar Snow, helped Madame Chou, disguised as a servant, to escape from Peking during the Japanese occupation in 1937.

Mrs. Nixon is sure to meet Madame Mao, who is known as Chiang Ching in China where women do not take their husbands' surnames.

But she is unlikely to have more than a brief chat with the former Shanghai actress, who has become one of China's leaders in her own right.

Madame Mao, 57, is a revolutionary who married Mao in 1939. She was one of the leaders of China's cultural revolution between 1966 and 1969. Observers say they doubt she and Mrs. Nixon would have much in common.

One woman whom Mrs. Nixon would almost certainly enjoy meeting is the widow of Sun Yat-Sen, the founder of modern China.

Madame Sun, who was educated at the Wesleyan College for Women in Macon, Georgia, speaks English perfectly. She is the sister of the wife of Nationalist Chinese leader Chiang Kai-shek.

She is now 81, however, and has not appeared in public for some time.

All China's female leaders and diplomats wear severe clothes and wear pants - sometimes baggy ones.

For this reason, some wives of diplomats stationed in Peking believe Mrs. Nixon should dress simply, possibly in pants suits.

They note that Princess

Sihanouk, the beautiful wife of former Cambodian head of state Norodom Sihanouk, who lives in exile here, often wears a thick jacket, pants and simple headscarf.

But one woman diplomat has different ideas.

"Whatever a foreigner wears here will be outlandish by Chinese standards," she says. "So Mrs. Nixon might as well wear what she likes."

Almost everyone agrees that Cheongsams (long, slit skirts) which are relics of the Manchu Dynasty, and wide-sleeved Mandarin outfits are inappropriate in modern communist China. There have been suggestions that Mrs. Nixon might wear cheongsams during her visit.

Elaborate hairdos formal occasions are also out. Peking's hairdressers are efficient but unsophisticated.

Mrs. Nixon is likely to spend much of her time visiting handicrafts factories and local beauty spots - well wrapped against the freezing temperatures common in February.

Holiday High Tea

High Tea sounds like a formal occasion. But it isn't. In England high tea frequently takes the place of supper and is an informal, family, sit-down type of meal. Or it can include guests and be served buffet style in the manner of our American Sunday night suppers. In any event, high tea always includes one hot dish in addition to the traditional tea time fare.

A holiday high tea is an ideal way to entertain during the Christmas season. Set out your tea service and an array of foods on your sideboard or buffet server. Let each guest fill his plate with his choice of goodies and then seat himself at the ready-set table. For the hot dish you could serve creamed turkey and mushrooms (a good way to use up the holiday bird) over buttery scones or biscuits. Have a spiced cake (made from a mix) for the dessert part of the meal. The tea, of course, should be piping hot and freshly made. Follow these simple rules and you'll have a brew that will be highly appreciated.

Perfect Hot Tea

1. Use your teapot and rinse it out with hot water. (This keeps the tea hot during brewing.)
2. Bring fresh cold tap water to a full rolling boil. (Water that has been reheated gives tea a flat taste.)
3. Use 1 teaspoonful of tea or 1 teabag per cup (about 5½ ounces) of water and pour the boiling water over the tea.
4. Let stand 3 to 5 minutes. Don't judge the strength of tea by its color. It takes time for the leaves to unfold and release their flavor. If you like your tea less strong, add water after brewing.

THE INFORMED CONSUMER

BY CRAWFORD C. MARTIN
Attorney General of Texas

Remember that unordered set of books you received in the mail along with a receipt requesting payment? Did you return the books or pay the bill? You didn't have to, you know.

Recall the time you got up early so you could get to the store in time to purchase an item at a "one-day-only special sale," only to find that they were "all out" of the bargain 10 minutes after the store opened?

Or how about that nice young college student who came to your door asking for a few minutes of your time to take a survey for a paper he was writing ... and didn't leave until he had spent three hours trying to get you to by a $600 set of books you didn't want or need?

Unfortunately, most consumers - at one time or another - have had their anger aroused by these and similar incidents. The Texas Attorney General's files are filled with case histories of problems encountered by innocent, although sometimes gullible, consumers.

Many of these legitimate gripes could have been avoided if the consumer had been aware of certain laws, or had been aware of the tactics typically used by unethical sales organizations. An informed consumer can be his own best protection in the market place.

The Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division enforces Texas's Deceptive Trade Practices law which presently permits the Attorney General to enjoin certain false, misleading, or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce.

This column, "The Informed Consumer", has been developed by my staff and by me to give consumer facts on consumer protection laws and information on consumer related topics. It was designed to make the "buyer be wary" as well as "beware".

Hopefully, it will assist consumers in recognizing and avoiding common business frauds. Included will be facts on the role of state and federal agencies in the area of consumer protection.

If you feel that you have been the victim of a deceptive act or practice contact my Consumer Protection Division at the Office of the Attorney General, P. O. Box 12548, Capitol Station, Austin, Texas 78711.

"Touch and Sew" is a familiar word for the new Model 750 Singer, "Golden Touch & Sew". Its simplicity, versatility and ease of operation is tops and typical of the whole range of Singer sewing equipment.

Other models are in the Touch and Sew line, including Model 756 Special Zig-Zag, the Zig-Zag and the Deluxe Straight Stitch Touch & Sew.

Schigut's in Cameron has a reputation for good clothing, but the department store has added in a new department, the only one in the Milam area.

It is a sales and service department for the famous Singer Sewing Machines, one of the best known household lines in the world.

John Schigut, manager and store owner, is taking as much an important role in the new department as Mrs. Lottie Witt, Mrs. Louise Butler and Mrs. Frieda Smith whose sales experience in clothing and piece goods help in advising what equipment is best for making one's own clothes, curtains and whatever a Singer Sewing machine can do, which is a lot.

Schigut's features a line of Singer machines in a department near the front of the downtown Cameron store. And any model not demonstrated or on display is quickly available through Singer sources at Schigut's.

Schigut's also assures service by Marshall Flores who lives in Cameron and has a number of years experience in maintenance and re-

Shop, Storage Share Garage

A garage workshop and garden tool storage area can be combined, without ousting cars to the weather, if tools, shelves and closets are carefully placed around the walls.

Shelves of varying widths of western pine or fir can be hung directly on the walls. Strips of wood nailed across the studs allow storage of lumber or long-handled tools between the studs.

Workbenches and storage closets for small tools and garden supplies also can be spaced around the walls. Narrower units should be placed where car doors need room to open.

Club Offers Guide For Purchase Of Mini-Bike

Minibikes represent the nations fastest-growing recreation among children 10 to 14 years old.

By the end of the year, more than 1 1/2 million of these vehicles will be in use in the United States, and most will be operated by this younger age group.

The trend has fanned a controversy between those who say minibikes help youngsters develop skills needed for operating a motor vehicle, and those who say they represent a serious safety hazard.

Last summer, the Department of Transportation made clear its stand on the issue. Warning parents that the minibike's soaring popularity will be accompanied by a "parallel growth in fatal crashes," it said that it "categorically opposed all use of minibikes on sidewalks or streets."

The American Automobile Association agrees that minibikes can be unsafe. In their simplest form, they consist of only a frame, two wheels, a seat and an engine. Some are not even equipped with a brake.

Still, recognizing the fact that some parents will be buying a minibike for their child this Christmas, AAA says that the parents must assume responsibility for purchasing one that is safely built.

For, although the federal government is developing standards for motorcycles -- to which minibikes designed and equipped to be licensed would be subject -- there are no such standards for minibikes built for unlicensed use. And the latter type of vehicles young children operate.

AAA says these are the safety features parents should insist upon:

1. A small engine to prevent excessive speeds.
2. A good braking system.
3. A well-guarded chain and flywheel.
4. Suspension on at least one wheel.
5. An accelerator that operates freely and does not stick in the open position.
6. A conveniently located "kill" button to stop the engine.
7. Fenders to prevent the throwing of rocks and dirt.
8. Square cross-section tires impede steering and

Every ardent angler remembers those rare times when he gets in a school of surfacing white bass and catches a fish on practically every cast.

Schooling fish such as these often give the inexperienced angler a sense of false security. Since the whites were near the top, he figures they spend most of their time in this vicinity, and he casts or trolls shallow-running baits.

Not so, says white bass expert Bob Hill of Austin who has fished over the entire state for whites and has worked out some highly specialized methods for taking them.

Based on his observations, Hill says whites spend fully 90 per cent of their time in deep water near the bottom. So anyone trolling a bait, even a deep-running job, usually isn't getting down to where the fish are.

Hill likes to tell about the time he was fishing on Lake Concho near San Angelo with Billy Disch, an Austin Marine dealer. Several boatloads of anglers were trolling for whites, while Hill and Disch were anchored, working the bottom, and catching a fish on almost every cast. Trollers, witnessing the phenomenal success of the Austinites, couldn't figure what they were doing wrong.

Since white bass prefer a bottom that's fairly clean, such as the mouth of a creek where a sand floor has been washed into the lake, the bottom can be worked with little likelihood of the lines getting hung up. Hill likes some sort of slow-wobbling bait, such as a silver or gold spoon or one made of solid lead.

His favorite used to be a heavy silver spoon, like the Dixie Jet, Tony Acetta or Lone Star spoon.

should be avoided. Large tires are preferable to small tires, especially on rugged terrain.

Before closing the sale, minibike purchasers should obtain a complete instruction manual, and make certain that a reasonable warranty on all parts is provided.

Blimps Provide Unique Rides

MIAMI A sure sign that the tourist season has come to Miami is the giant blimp slowly cruising across the skyline.

The lighter-than-air Mayflower, based in Miami each winter, and her sister airships, Columbia and America are the only blimps known to be operating today. A fourth, the Europa, is currently under construction in England. All belong to the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co.

One of the five pilots assigned to the Mayflower, Ron Bell, smiles as he says, "There are more astronauts than blimp pilots. Flying them is a whole lot of fun, and I can't think of better value for your five dollars than a half hour ride on a blimp."

A former commercial pilot, who flew freight to South America, Bell says the nicest thing about flying the blimp is that the customers are always happy. "Most of the people we take up are on vacation, so they're always smiling. It makes us feel happy too," he said.

That conversion from regular airplanes to the blimp sure took some getting used to. It's crazy to see birds fly right past you," he said.

A favorite trick of Bell's is to take a qualified pilot up in the blimp, and just after takeoff, to cut the power. "They just turn white. On a normal plane if you had to do that, it would be all over for you. The plane would stall and you'd never have time to recover. But the blimp is loaded with helium, and that's what keeps you up in the air," he said.

Before taking off, Bell warns his six passengers,

"It's going to be a little noisy right now." He calls out to the ground crew to let go of the ropes, and the blimp rises skyward, powered by two 75 HP. engines providing a cruising speed of 35 MPH.

The ground leaves you surprisingly quickly, and for a few seconds after the lift-off, the engine sounds in your ears and your seat vibrates.

Then the sound softens, and there's the unusual feeling of being high as in a plane. Only everything passes by so slowly. A man riding a bicycle across the causeway seems to keep up with you.

You look down at the plush oblong islands in the bay and a luxury yacht leaves a white trail of foam in its wake.

Then past Miami Beach and over the beachfront hotels, Bell said, "Let's stop here for a few moments and admire the view." Floating like a balloon the silence was dashed every few minutes by huge jets heading toward Miami International Airport.

With a sigh Bell said, "Conventional airplanes may have outdistanced the blimp in their development, but they can never match the romance we have with our blimps."

The Mayflower is 160 feet long, 58 feet high and 51 feet wide, for "exercise," she and her two sister ships travel more than 100,000 miles a year as public relations vehicles for the company.

More than 3,000 light bulbs are mounted on the sides of the Mayflower, that spell out messages or provide airborne cartoons.

Animated messages have been developed for various holiday seasons of the year -- the Magi leading their camels across the desert for Christmas - hopping rabbits for Easter and a colorful turkey for Thanksgiving. The night signs are also used to flash public service messages and Goodyear sale promotion advertising to after-dark audiences on the ground below.

Freeze-Up Due; Ships Unloading

DETROIT, Mich. The chill winds of winter are breathing down the necks of 173 sea captains and their crews as they try to sail their oceangoing ships out of the Great Lakes before freeze-up.

The number of vessels now in fresh water above Niagara in fresh water above Montreal has set an all-time record for the end of the navigation season.

All the skippers are worried because they know that only two sub-freezing days in Montreal will lock them in the lakes until spring.

Docks are crowded in a dozen Great Lakes ports, including Detroit where some salt water ships are riding at anchor in the middle of the Detroit River every day, waiting their turn at the Gantry cranes.

In most ports where loading and unloading are done outside, rain and snow have slowed the job and delayed ship movements.

Because of the east coast dock strike, many of the ships were diverted to the Great Lakes, and because of this, the number of vessels still in the lakes on Dec. 1 is double that of most years.

Of the 173 ships in the Great Lakes, 133 were in the Welland Canal between Lakes Ontario and Erie or above them, some of them as far north or west as Duluth, Minn.

The theoretical deadline for the closing of the Great Lakes system is Dec. 12 -- the day on which the St. Lambert Lock in the St. Lawrence is scheduled to close until spring.

BOUNDARIES

The border between the United States and Canada is the result of no less than seven treaties. Negotiators who signed the Treaty of Paris in 1782 relied upon a map drawn 27 years earlier in defining the border. The map's inaccuracies raised boundary questions that were not resolved until the Treaty of 1925.

Alien Fires Dangerous In California

By William Perry
Reuter Correspondent

SAN DIEGO, Calif.

It's the fire season again in southern California and while the rest of the nation is thinking about football, fireplaces and anti-freeze, residents in the dry rolling hills of this state are worried about a repeat of last year's disastrous fire.

The seven-day fire blackened 185,000 acres, killed five persons and caused $5.7 million worth of damage.

And this fall there is another problem. How do you go about telling an illegal alien from Mexico how to build a campfire -- which also is against the law.

Fire officials said the problem of aliens building fires to warm food is increasing as the number of aliens streaming into the U.S. from Mexico for farm work continues to go up. At present 4,000 a month are arrested in San Diego County.

Although the aliens usually cover their fires with dirt, the ashes may smoulder for days until the wind steps up, fans the embers and causes another brush fire in the dry chaparral.

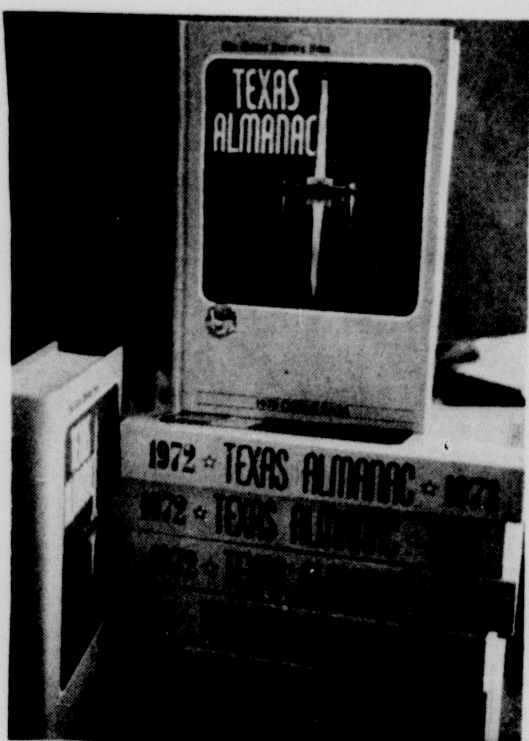

In the past two years, campfires built by aliens have led to 84 known brush fires in San Diego County, according to California and U. S. fire officials. While none resulted in large losses, fighting them has been costly.

So forestry officials hope to show aliens how to build fires safely -- even if they are illegal in explosively dry forest lands.

Vienna Tries Experiment With Banning Car Traffic

VIENNA Pedestrians literally bounced with joy while motorists tooted their horns in anger when an experiment aimed at giving the heart of the city back to the people was launched here.

The experiment, which will last until January 2, has turned the heart of Vienna into a pedestrian zone from which virtually all traffic is banned.

The area embraces the historic Stephansplatz -- the cathedral square -- and two of Vienna's most glamorous shopping streets, Graben and the Kaerntnerstrasse, which run off the square.

Pedestrians have greeted the idea enthusiastically and the zone has already been invaded by "happenings" like brass bands, Punch and Judy shows, amplified pop and jazz music and giant plastic play balls.

But motorists are not at all enthusiastic, to say the least. The first working day of the experiment, Vienna was paralyzed by the worst traffic jams in its history. Between five and six o'clock -- to a discordant and disgruntled chorus of car horns -- traffic on the streets leading to the pedestrian zone ground to a halt.

Streetcars were straddled on cross roads, ambulances were trapped in the crush, drivers were even more irate and short-tempered than usual, and the police were helpless.

The "ring" a series of wide streets which surrounds the central Vienna, had to absorb much of the traffic which would have normally gone straight through the center, and this too was jammed solid with vehicles.

Under the experiment all traffic, with a few exceptions, is banned from the area between 7 a.m. and 7 p.m. from Monday to Saturday.

Goods deliveries are permitted between 7 a.m. and 10:30 a.m. only, while buses, public amenity service vehicles and postal deliveries are allowed passage through the zone at all times.

At the end of the experimental period city authorities will decide whether or not it is feasible to make a pedestrian zone a more permanent feature.

The man in charge of the experiment, architect Wolfgang Windbrechtling, said the main aim of the zone was to give the heart of the city back to the people releasing the center from "the tyranny of the motor car."

He hopes the zone will encourage Viennese to take a fresh look at their historic city.

Floodlights have been erected to light up the area and the major buildings, while loudspeakers give pedestrians music while they walk. A creche and playground have been set up for the children of shoppers and three giant plastic playballs, about 13 feet in diameter are a "boy" for both children and adults.

During the official opening of the zone the balls were bounced and pounced on by old and young alike.

Next weekend a "walking school" -- a sort of obstacle course -- designed to re-instruct normally car-bound citizens to use their legs for walking, is due to be opened.

Although the pedestrians are happy with the experiment, the poor Viennese motorist, already plagued with a newly introduced one-way system in the city center and road works on virtually every street, may find the blocked route through the heart of the city the last straw.

New Test Shows Sex Of Unborn

ANN ARBOR, MICH.

Doctors at the University of Michigan Medical Center have accurately determined the sex of 103 unborn children by a test which can be given as early as the 13th week of pregnancy.

The test is performed by drawing amniotic fluid from the mother by inserting a needle into the uterus under local anesthetic.

The fluid is then incubated for 2 to 4 weeks. At that time the researchers can examine the chromosomal structure of certain cells it contains and can detect whether the fetus is male or female.

The studies have also opened the door for determining whether certain genetic diseases, such as mongolism, are present in the unborn child.

The doctors say that about 50 percent of all mongoloids are born to women over 35 years of age. Although the individual test costs about $100, the doctors believe it would be economically desirable to test the high-risk mothers, on the assumption that families would elect to abort a mongoloid fetus rather than provide the institutional care required to maintain the child once it is born.

Yule Lives In Legend And Lore

Twinkling on trees, glowing from windows, glittering everywhere, Christmas lights reflect, today, the candles of an earlier time.

A candle in the window can light the Christ Child on his way, says Irish legend.

Nativity scenes in homes and churches depict the animals of the Manger—and on Christmas Eve, the cattle, the sheep and all the animals present at the Nativity are given the gift of speech.

So says the lore of Christmas.

Blossoming on the holiday scene, greens and flowers spread their beauty and fragrance, reminding all of the living wonder of Christmas.

In legend, all flowers bloom at midnight on Christmas Eve, just as they did more than 2,000 years ago.

The legend and lore of Christmas expresses the simple faith that lies at the heart of this happy, holy time.

Some of the most delightful of legends are told in carols.

From France comes the "Carol of the Birds." Its words recount how the birds flew to Bethlehem to behold the Christ Child. Each bird, as it flew, sang a special song of praise and rejoicing.

There's a "Carol of the Flowers," too. Summoned to the presence of the newborn King, every flower blossomed, and each blossom was a symbol of the Little One's virtues.

Seafaring peoples, in their own way, related nature's wonders to the miracle of the Nativity, through carols.

"I Saw Three Ships Come Sailing" tells of ships crossing the sea on Christmas morn, bearing Jesus, Mary and Joseph.

The Payroll Savings Plan is for people who hate to think about saving.

If you're one of those people who needs to save but doesn't like to think about it, the Payroll Savings Plan is a perfect solution to your problem.

You only have to think about saving once and that's when you join.

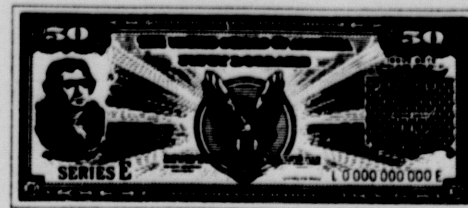

After that, money is added to your savings every payday. Whether you remember or not.

While you're thinking about other things, your money will be adding up faster than ever before. Now there's a bonus interest rate on all U.S. Savings Bonds. E Bonds now pay 5 1/2% when held to a maturity of 5 years, 10 months (4% the first year). That extra 1/2% is payable as a bonus at maturity. This applies to all bonds issued since June 1, 1970... with a comparable improvement for all older bonds.

Start building a nest egg the easy way:

Sign up for the Payroll Savings Plan. Then forget it.

Bonds are safe. If lost, stolen, or destroyed, we replace them. When needed, they can be cashed at your bank. Tax may be deferred until redemption. And always remember, Bonds are a proud way to save.

Take stock in America.
Now Bonds pay a bonus at maturity.

Dramatizing Birth of Christ Awakens Awe and Wonder

Creche, Christmas crib, manger scene, crib of Bethany, praesepe—in many countries, the representation of the Nativity through figures from miniature to lifesize goes by many names.

Anyone who watches a child before a manger scene this Christmas will readily see, in the child's awe and enthusiasm, that re-creating the Miracle of Christ's birth is an exalting experience.

"IT CAME UPON THE MIDNIGHT CLEAR" may have been a favorite carol of Henry Ford and his wife Clara (Bryant), for they sent this greeting card, bearing the song written by Edmund H. Sears. From the Hallmark Historical Collection.

Intangible Gifts Are Bringing Best Blessings, in Abundance

Among the treasures and pleasures of Christmas, gifts loom large—as all who greet the Yuletide as a season of laughter and a time to be glad of heart well know.

Tangible gifts, large and small, have their place in the holiday scheme of things. They're the outgoing expression of the generous Christmas spirit.

It's the intangible gifts, though, that seem to shine most radiantly, Christmas after Christmas.

The delighted smiles of children and the wonder in their eyes, the privilege of aiding the less fortunate, the opportunity to cherish and strengthen friendships and family ties, the renewed spirituality, the solid foundations of health, happiness and love, faith and hope—these are the intangible gifts.

Blessed indeed is the Christmas that brings an abundance of such gifts!

Sen. Watson To Announce Intentions

WACO

State Sen. Murray Watson Jr. of the 13th Senatorial District will make an announcement of his political intentions at a press conference to be held Wednesday, Dec. 15 at 2 p.m. at the Camelot Inn.

His district was changed as a result of reapportionment and the Central Texas district now runs from Waco to Abilene. State Reps. Tom Moore and Grant Jones have announced for the Senate in the new district.

Early speculation has indicated Watson's intention of seeking a promotion to the United States Congress, a position held by W. R. Poage, who has been in public office in the Central Texas area for the past 46 years.

Watson, a native of Mart, and Waco attorney has been active in political life for the past 16 years in Central Texas. Sen. Watson served six years as a member of the Texas House of Representatives and for the past 10 years has been the State Senator representing McLennan, Bell, Milam, Falls, and Limestone counties.

The public is invited to the conference and coffee will be served.

Easy Shopping Ahead

Food marketing systems designed to save the home-maker time continue to be the trend in the U.S. One example is a return to telephone orders in one large southern city. But there's a new twist. The customer is provided with a list and prices of the same variety of foods found in a typical supermarket. The phoned-in order is delivered within four hours.

Soon to make its debut in America is a new type food store, developed in Europe, that allows the shopper to select items by push button. It's similar to an automatic cafeteria. Items are automatically retrieved and delivered at receiving door.

and an automatic retailing machine collects the money. The "buy now-pay later" concept is moving into one of the few areas which, until now, has remained pretty much on a cash basis. Credit cards for food shopping are being used by a number of food stores.
